Jackson Pond- property tax deed property

- Currently the lot is generally described and bounded with a narrative that refers to lands held by abutting land holders, making it difficult to understand the exact boundaries. There are several rock walls that appear to conform to the boundary descriptions and the property abuts Jackson Pond.
- There is a right of way mention that appears to follow a rock wall to the property.
- The property is an open wood lot with older forest growth. A number of trees show evidence of storm damage.
- The property gently slopes from the right of way to the edge of the pond.
